A vote for the levies is a vote to promote higher education.

The crown prince has been killed lately, but a lot of others are dropping off at Verdun.

However, even in Oregon, and Scott can't agree, South and Garrison continue in pretty good accord.

There is also a suspicion that with the border requirements in the air, the border is likely to become chaotic.

Some of these days a sufficient fit scratch will announce a talk on charity—and each has his own.

Keep the city high school interested. To do this more money is necessary. Vote for the extra tax mill.

Now that Mr. Root has definitely come out for President, probably we shall hear who are suspending at Republicans.

Edith Root has made formal announcement of his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination and headquarters have been established.

Isn't it strange how well informed the Carrizo folks are about "our sprawls" in the United States while being so ignorant of real troubles in their own country?

Has anybody discovered here it is that when a vessel is a warship it always hits a mine and when it's simply a freight carrier with a cargo of munitions it's torpedoed?

A book is announced. Thinking as a science, "telling you not only how but what to think." This is efficient.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

SEE HERE YOUNG MAN,
HOW IS IT YOU SPENT
OVER TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS AT COLLEGE
LAST YEAR?
ILL TELL YOU
POP, THE MOST OF IT WENT FOR POKER AND BOOZE.

HUMAN NATURE.

They were all quiet with the sun hot but the heat did not bother them.A major achievement in the administration was in the use of unemployment.When a woman goes to the ward and carries the blouse back all alone she is doing.When she drifts a single man is a querrel, just as her husband used to be.Persons as fierce as a woman not once can make a mold on an ice cube.Women have no value as a gift placed in her ear, nor keeping for her own husband.The partings of love are of more value to some women than their children.Woman is limited in the rights of her creation, and what is often a mere woman's nature she is limited in her choice of a husband.One often wonders why women marry some men. Is the truth that the last day has come, or that the man will be gone before the next day.Man is the purchased woman. He buys her either as slavery or force. The initial idea is a woman's bought price, and the man, not his shrewdness depends on the woman.The reason less college women marry than those not of college, is where they require a higher standard of husband. The way to remedy this is to bring men up to the right standard and not to lower that caused by the college students.Man is the purchased woman. He buys her either as slavery or force. The initial idea is a woman's bought price, and the man, not his shrewdness depends on the woman.And we all love you, Mr. Sun. But sometimes you know folks think you're very selfish when you go off on those long visits of yours and it rains all the time. Today I did really some grumbling about you. I really, really did.

And pray tell me what had Edone?

"Just at noon today when so many people were starting out with picnics to the woods and with shopping bags to the city—for the longest while you disappeared and nobody saw a sign of you. Everyone was afraid that you had had a fight with the King of the Clouds and that he had won and that soon he and his army of rain drops would fall to earth and it would pour.""Well, now if that isn't the subject?" said Mr. Sun. "And the idea of grumbling? Couldn't they understand that I had a luncheon party on for today behind the clouds?"Oh, was this the day for the party?" shouted the fairies. "Do tell us about it.""Every time you hear the grown-up people say, 'The sun has gone behind a cloud,' then you may know that I'm having a luncheon party. I always call it luncheon, no matter what it is, because that does just as well as supper or afternoon tea or breakfast, and it saves time and trouble.
Very smart, eh?" And Mr. Sun beamed."You know how I love the back of the clouds," Mr. Sun continued. "I didn't have a party once in while I wouldn't have any fun for when I'd be shining over the earth people I have to use all my strength to see that flowers grow and the boys and girls keep warm.""Ah, but it's fun behind the clouds.
We had such a good time today. I never tried to shine at all. I just sank back and rested and dozed. Often I have fine chats with the King of the Clouds to be sure, and his army of raindrops, or raindrops, and a package of these tablets from your luncheon, or whatever it is. And Mr. Sun beamed.

"I know how I love the back of the clouds," Mr. Sun continued. "I didn't have a party once in while I wouldn't have any fun for when I'd

be shining over the earth people I have to use all my strength to see
that flowers grow and the boys and girls keep warm.""That means a hard rest when tomorrow," laughed the fairies.

"THINGS TO FORGET.

Forget the shudder you have heard.

Forget the noisy, unkind word.

Forget the quarrel and the cause.

Forget the world affair, to a cause.

Forget the dream of yesterday.

Forget the dream whose sour.

Forget the trials you have had.

Forget the weather if it's bad.

Forget the smacker, he's a treat.

Forget him seven days a week.

Forget you're not a millionaire.

Forget the great streaks in your hair.

Forget the same team lost the game.

Forget the writer was in blank.

THE NAVY WE NEED.

The testimony of Rear Admiral

Austin M. Knight, president of the Naval War College, before the House

Naval Committee comes as a tonic to a nation depressed by the dosages of quackery. First of all, he says, "The world produces no better sailors, of fences or men than are to be found in the American navy." That is what we used to believe before the panic struck. It is good to be reminded by an officer of the authority and experience of Admiral Knight that we can still believe it.

The navy general board's conception of our naval needs, as set out in Admiral Knight, was summarized by Admiral M. Knight.
